

Any move takes careful planning but if you would like to relocate during the summer, there are a few more things to consider. Many families prefer moving during this time of the year because children do not have to go to school and they will have more time to adjust. It will also make it easier for the adults to get used to their new routines and get to know the neighbourhood.

Contact Your Removalists with Anticipation

Summer is a popular time of the year to move so removalists are usually very busy. If you are planning a move in the Gold Coast summer months, make sure to contact your moving company at least six weeks in advance. This will give you the chance to book your spot and get everything sorted out. Some companies might have space for a last-minute job but do not count on that.

Start Packing

Packing is one of the most time-consuming tasks during a move. It can take several weeks to put everything into boxes. Now that your children are home, they might be able to help you but be realistic. If there is simply too much to do, it is better to hire a team of removalists that will also pack for you. Keep in mind that you must book this service in advance as they will need to know how many people will be required for the job. Do not expect them to provide this service without a few weeks' notice.

Look After Your Belongings

The weather is an extremely important element to consider when planning a move in the Gold Coast summer months. Keep in mind that the moving truck could get extremely hot and that might not be the most adequate environment for some of your items. CD's, DVD's, videos, candles, makeup and other things could get ruined if left in a hot vehicle. Plan ahead and take vulnerable items with you.
